STEERING WHEEL NOAH'S ARK

Archaeologists uncover 12,000-year-old artifact on California's Mount Shasta — and Bible scholars are stunned!

MT. SHASTA, Calif. — Archaeologists have uncovered a shocking 12,000-year-old, petrified, wooden ship's wheel they believe was used by Noah to steer his famous Ark during the Great Flood!

And much to the surprise of Bible scholars and archaeologists, the ancient artifact was found not in the Middle East, Europe or Asia, but right here in the United States — high atop California's mysterious Mt. Shasta!

"This turns history upside down," declared Dr. Eric Lerian, whose team of archaeologists made the amazing find. "It means the human race re-populated Earth starting from America."

Until recently, most Bible scholars believed Noah's Ark came to rest on Mt. Ararat in Turkey, and over the years various people have claimed to have found remnants of the ancient vessel there.

Most of those claims have been debunked and in recent years, many experts have concluded that the Turkish "Ararat" is not the same mountain referred to by that name in the Good Book.

On the other hand, the 8-foot-diameter wheel, found on the side of the 14,162-foot Mt. Shasta, has all the earmarks of the genuine article.

"Radio-carbon dating puts it at more than 11,000 years old — making it part of the oldest ship ever discovered," said Dr. Lerian, whose team unearthed the object.

The wheel's design is of "great antiquity," ship-building experts who've examined it confirm. What's more, the wheel is made from what RADIO-CARBON DATING puts the age of the ship's wheel at more than 12,000 years. At right, archaeologist Dr. John Lerian brushes away the dirt to reveal the amazing artifact.

EXPERTS believed Noah's Ark came to rest on Turkey's Mt. Ararat. New evidence proves that's not true.

TEAM OF SCIENTISTS climbed 14,162-foot-tall Mt. Shasta in order to dig the wheat out of the side of the mountain.

...was called "gopher wood" in Biblical times — the material God specifically instructed Noah to use in Genesis 6:14.

"We can't prove beyond all shadow of a doubt that this wheat comes from Noah's Ark, but it is hard to imagine any other reason for there to be a ship of any kind at this altitude," said Dr. Lorian.

Mt. Shasta, encircled by five majestic glaciers, has been a New Age mecca for decades.

Many people claim to have seen strange, vicious white creatures there — including visitations by tall beings in long robes who told of an ancient race that once lived on the mountain.

"All the mysticism associated with Mount Shasta now makes a lot more sense," said Dr. Lorian, whose team is now trying to recover the rest of the Ark.

The discovery will have Bible scholars and historians scrambling to rewrite books about America, he predicted.

"In the past, history teachers taught how, in prehistoric times, humans crossed the Bering Straits from Asia to North America and became the Indians. Our findings suggest that the reverse is true.

"The early humans who survived the Flood started out in America and gradually spread out."

Want your kids to grow up happy?

Put 'em to work ...says Harvard study

Do your kids a lifelong favor and put them to work — because children who help out around the house or have part-time jobs grow up to be happier and better-adjusted adults, according to a new Harvard study.

The researchers followed 456 inner-city men from the time they were 14 years old until they reached the age of 47 and those who did chores or had jobs fared much better later in life.

According to child care experts familiar with the study, working youngsters were on to hold better-paying jobs, get along better with their wives, families and friends, and were distinctly happier.

The boys who hadn't been required to work either inside or outside the home showed a higher incidence of mental illness, had more run-ins with the law and died at a younger age. They also worked at lower-paying jobs.

Although the study only followed low-income men, our expert said the results would be similar for other income groups as well.

The reason for the difference is that assigning chores is a way for parents to demonstrate their love for a child.

The men in the study who were required to do chores as children had well-balanced parents who loved and cared about them and who also expected a lot from them in the way of good, responsible behavior, including helping with household chores.

Another expert recommends starting children on chores as early as possible, but adds, it's never too late. Children of any age will benefit from assuming duties around the house.

EXPERT TELLS HOW TO FACE LIFE'S 6 MOST EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

By JUNE SAWYER / Weekly World News

You can handle the six most embarrassing situations you're likely to experience with some easy tips from an expert.

Here are the situations — and what to do, according to psychologist Dr. Marc Lipton.

1 You're confronted after saying something nasty behind someone's back. "Don't deny what you've said. If you do, you may never be trusted again — or it may cost you a friendship. Admit your indiscretion by saying, 'I'm sorry I said what I did and I'm deeply sorry that you heard about it.' " Dr. Lipton advised.

2 You've made a promise you can't keep — or have completely forgotten about. "Say, 'I overcommitted myself' or 'I forgot and I'm terribly sorry I inconvenienced you.' "

Assure the person that you did not intentionally mean to displease him and you value his friendship, said Dr. Lipton, a top psychologist.

3 You get caught in a white lie. "The best way to handle the situation is to say, 'You caught me. I goofed.' If you try to explain why you lied, you'll get stuck in a no-win conversation. Simply admit you lied, then keep quiet."

4 You do something clumsy. "It's embarrassing to spill wine on your hostess' tablecloth or knock over a valuable knickknack. After you have been clumsy, do what you can to correct any damage. Offer to repair or replace a damaged item or clean up a mess. Then change the subject.

"Don't cause an occasion by making a big deal of your clumsiness."

5 You're embarrassed by someone else's bad behavior. "It can be embarrassing when your spouse, child or friend says something vulgar, acts up or behaves obnoxiously in public.

"Minimize your embarrassment by deciding how you are going to 'talk' to them in private. Don't increase your embarrassment by making a scene in public."

6 You don't understand what other people are talking about.

"It can be embarrassing to be uninformed about a subject others are discussing — or when everyone's laughing at a joke you didn't get.

"The next time that you miss the point of a joke or cannot get a handle on what is being discussed, ask someone for an explanation."

. . . and still come out smelling like a rose!

Tickling can cause childhood asthma!

BRUSSELS, Belgium — Medical researchers have discovered an astounding and unexpected cause of childhood asthma. Tickling!

A recent survey of parents with children ranging from 3 to 7 years of age found that moms and dads who tickled their children as a regular part of family horseplay were eight times as likely to have asthmatic children as those who never tickled their children.

Scientists theorize that tickling causes children to expel their breaths in intense bursts of air, possibly causing lasting damage to delicate lung tissue.

THE SHOCKING IMAGE picked up by some 300 feet below the desert sands is identical to the image on Mars.

Mysterious 'Face on Mars' sculpture found in Israeli desert

...researchers say

By MIKE FOSTER

JERUSALEM — Israeli researchers probing the desert with sonar have detected a dead ringer for the famous Face on Mars — 300 feet below the sand!

Using sophisticated imaging technology, the experts created a detailed sonogram-like picture of the object — and it is nearly identical to the mysterious monument on the Red Planet.

"This face has the same helmet, the same Sphinx-like expression — it had to have been built by the same people," says archaeologist Dr. Yehuda Magdal, leader of the team of university researchers.

The Holy Land find, buried underground about 30 miles outside Jerusalem, is roughly 1.5 miles long about the same length as the Face on Mars. The researchers believe that it originally lay on the surface, but that centuries of sandstorms buried it beneath the dunes.

"We estimate that it would have taken about 4,000 years for the sand to cover the face," said Dr. Magdal. "That means that the Holy Land Face is at least that old — and was probably visible when the biblical patriarch Abraham first formed his covenant with God.

Indeed, early Hebrew writings and Babylonian myths mention something called "the Big Head." Researchers believe these could be references to the Holy Land Face.

The Face on Mars was first photographed by NASA's Viking probe in 1976. Ever since the image of what appears to be a giant stone sculpture of a helmeted human head was made public, excited researchers have argued that it is proof of intelligent extraterrestrial life. But skeptics have argued that it is simply a big boulder that happens to resemble a person.

"The discovery of an identical face here on Earth settles that argument once and for all," says Dr. Magdal. "This cannot be mere chance.

"Either Martians visited Earth in ancient times — or an extraterrestrial traveler from yet another world visited our solar system and built both these monuments."

Anxious to learn more, researchers plan to excavate the Jerusalem site next spring, provided they receive the funding to proceed.

"As we can imagine, getting to the monument will be quite an undertaking," says Dr. Magdal. "But clearly the effort is worth it — the scientific implications of the find are breathtaking."

'Pick up homeless people like dogs . . . then put 'em to sleep if they aren't adopted,' says conservative group!

By ANN VICTORIA | Weekly World News

LOS ANGELES — Human-rights groups are up in arms over a drastic proposal to put homeless people into enclosures similar to dog pounds — and have them put to sleep like unwanted pets if they're not adopted by a caring family within one year!

Mark Bradley

And although no experts believe the plot has a chance of being enacted into law, there are more than a few voices here who support the idea.

"It's time to stop this bleeding-heart nonsense and instead of what is obviously a problem of epidemic proportions in this country," says radical social reformer Marvin Bradley whose group, Citizens Against Urban Nuisances (CAUN), is spearheading the plan.

"The homeless are filthy, disease-carrying, and often violent. And they're breeding like rats and overrunning over the good parts of the city where decent people live.

"I know my solutions sound extreme to some people, but consider the alternative — bad guys running around on the streets virtually unchecked by the mentally ill."

Bradley assures that he doesn't want to see anyone euthanized.

"What we really hope is that well-to-do Americans will adopt these street people. Every day the humane society places dogs and cats into the homes of unsheltered pet owners.

"We're hoping the same instinct will lead others to adopt the homeless."

CAUN's plan allows for wealthy couples to take in the homeless person and assume responsibility for any medical or psychiatric care he might need.

Only if the person is not adopted by a man would he be put to sleep.

Bradley says that if the plan is not adopted, he would at least like to see street people spayed or neutered.

YES: We should start rounding up homeless people like stray animals and put them to sleep if they aren't adopted in one year.

NO: Homeless people are human beings just like the rest of us and should be treated with kindness and a helping hand.

CORPSE FOUND LIFE

EXPERTS are positive beyond a shadow of a doubt that the skeletal remains found floating in a Titanic life ring, right, is that of Josephine Stanton, above, a young woman who sailed as a lady's companion on the ill-fated voyage.

IN TITANIC RING!

Weekly World News
EXCLUSIVE
By TANYA BRODER

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — The crew of a Scandinavian freighter were shocked when they fished a skeleton out of the frigid waters of the North Atlantic — and discovered the eerie remains were floating in a life preserver from the Titanic.

DISASTER AT SEA: More than 1,500 passengers and crew were lost on April 14, 1912, when the Titanic went down on its maiden voyage — after striking an iceberg in the North Atlantic.

Now experts who have examined the skeleton and its sock-filled buoy are convinced the ghastly relics actually came from the famous passenger liner that sank back in 1912, taking more than 1,500 people down with it.

"We've examined the life preserver and the skeleton in great detail and both offer irrefutable proof that they have been exposed to the elements in the North Atlantic region for many, many decades," said Dr. Nils Andren, a marine biologist at Sweden's prestigious Uppsala Institute.

"The life buoy is identical to those the Titanic was equipped with. It was made of the same materials in the same year at "The human skeleton is that of a young woman of about 25 years of age. Forensic examination indicates the woman died between 80 and 100 years ago, probably from freezing to death. What's more, when found, the remains still wore a gem-encrusted ring on the right hand.

"It was inscribed J.B. Benton," indicating this woman was almost surely Josephine Benton, a young woman who sailed as a lady's companion on the ill-fated voyage."

MARINE BIOLOGIST Dr. Nils Andren

According to Dr Andren the horrifying find was first spotted by a boatswain aboard the Swedish merchant ship Svealand July 11. The man reported he saw a small white dot several hundred feet off the starboard bow and when he looked at it through binoculars, he saw it was a life preserver with something inside it.

When the ship closed on the floating object, the boatswain realized he was looking at a human skeleton and alerted the ship's captain.

"Fortunately, they preserved the find very well," Dr Andren said.

"They photographed it in the water, then carefully removed it and placed it in a metal container. The skeleton in its container was sent to authorities for identification purposes."

Dr Andren worked with police forensic experts to learn as much as possible about the remains — and what they found was amazing. Their investigation led them to conclude that the floating body had been snatched into the waters of the Atlantic more than 80 years ago from the Titanic.

"We believe this young woman jumped off of the ship with her life preserver as the Titanic sank on the night of April 14, 1912," the biologist said. "She died of exposure a few hours afterward, but in the frigid night of the North Atlantic, her body probably stiffened and froze in place in the life preserver.

"Ordinarily, weather conditions would have eventually destroy the remains, but in this case something unusual happened.

"The floating corpse most likely drifted north into even colder regions, where it became imbedded in an floes along with its preserver. The ice would have protected it from the weather and the passing years. Now, with global warming, the ice is breaking up — and Miss Benton and her life preserver have been freed."

Authorities are trying to trace the family of Josephine Benton, but so far have had no luck finding her relatives. The body will be given a burial at state expense if no one comes forward to claim the

THE NEW FAT-FIGHTER: SLIMMING CAPSULES THAT SOAK UP FAT

DIET SUCCESS

Have you ever wondered why sea animals never get fat? Now this new revolutionary slimming substance has finally been discovered and developed into a remarkable diet pill.

Scientists dedicated years of research to come up with a high powered diet ingredient with no side effects, that is now available under the name Reda Quick®. This breakthrough being formulated high power diet pill has been created and discovered by Dr. Jackish, M.D., for men and women to lose weight and bind fat from foods you have eaten. The idea is as brilliant as it is simple.

Have you ever seen an overweight fish? Or an oyster with a few pounds too many?

Everyone knows that sea animals never get fat. That's because their bodies contain Reda Quick, which is now available as a diet pill for everybody who wants to lose unwanted fat.

THE MOST IMPORTANT QUESTIONS:

How does Reda Quick work?

It functions like a sponge. Its active substance is released from the capsule during digestion and attaches itself to body fat. These complex fat molecules cannot be digested and leave your body easily. You can easily test this principle for yourself. If you add fat to a glass of water, it will dissipate evenly. But when you now sprinkle the contents of a Reda Quick pill in the water the fat will be soaked up, solidified in seconds and rises to the surface.

Dr. Jackish, M.D., created a breakthrough high power diet pill.

Why do I lose weight?

Reda Quick reduces body fat deposits in the belly, thighs and butt. It also makes sure that the fat from your last meal leaves your body before being digested.

Does Reda Quick pose any health risks?

No. Reda Quick molecules dissolve fatty tissue by purely natural means. Since it is an entirely natural product, Reda Quick causes no side effects, no chemical alteration of the body's metabolism, no digestive disturbances nor depression. Reda Quick stimulates the digestive system to rapidly eliminate the solidified fat molecules and after all, that is precisely the effect you are looking for.

READERS REPORT

Some readers tested the new diet pill for a few weeks for us. Here are their comments:

Shirley Sebastian (47), sales assistant:

"The new fat fighter has really changed my life. I am proud to fit into clothes I was not even overweight for that I am back 110 lbs. I've been using Reda Quick capsules 3 times daily for one last four weeks and intend to stick to it. People tell me that I look years younger. I think I have a lot more self confidence now since I regained my normal weight. I feel great and had no complications or any unpleasantness to side effects that is very good for some strong benefits."

Karin Kneberlein (48), Brown maker:

"I mean am I overjoyed 100 lbs. now I am down to just 140 lbs! During my new career change by eating habits at all. The pounds just flew off and disappeared only due to the new slimming capsules. My appearance is so different that my friends wouldn't believe I'd lost weight. The best thing about Reda Quick is that my waist size is I inches smaller, now only 26 inches. And it has taken off quite some inches from my bust (3 inches) and thighs (4 inches). My new measurements only 35 inches. I will wear the same size now always. The fat has disappeared from my body and I feel much better. I am very happy with the results."

HOW TO ORDER

Reda Quick is now available in the U.S. on the exclusive order line. Here is how you can order 180 capsules for $29.95, plus $5.95 s&h / Canadian & overseas orders: $10.95 s&h):

SLEEPING ON THE JOB IS GOOD FOR YOU

Snoozing on the job can be good for you — and even some bosses are beginning to agree.

Workplace naps can significantly increase the energy and productivity of workers and help them get along better with fellow employees, according to leading experts who have written two books on the subject.

If you need more ammunition to wake up your boss to the fact that permitting employees to catch a few z's now-and-then is smart business, you might point out that some of history's most brilliant and accomplished men were work time nappers.

John F. Kennedy, Winston Churchill, Thomas Edison, Brahms, Da Vinci, Salvadore Dali and Napoleon were all known to take cat-naps from their brain-straining schedules to recharge their batteries by nodding off for a few minutes during their busy workdays.

And according to Professor William Anthony of Boston University, fitting a cap into busy workday schedules, can get the job done for ordinary people, too. When he wrote The Art of Napping (1987, Larsen Publications, Burdette, N.Y.) he mentioned that his wife, Camille would throw off on her boss' couch while she was at work.

The response after Prof. Anthony mentioned his wife's on-the-job slumbers in his first book tracing the benefits of daily naps was so great that he teamed up with her to write The Art of Napping at Work (1990, Larsen.

Before the invention of the lightbulb, Americans used to average about 10 hours of sleep nightly, the professor points out. Now the average is about seven hours, and that's not good, he says.

A 1987 poll by Louis Harris and Associates showed that people who got less than eight hours of sleep reported their concentration dropped by 36 percent, they accomplished only 74 percent of their capacity, and the quality of their work plunged by 30 percent.

"There are all sorts of problems related to lack of sleep at work. But for some reason, we see productivity and napping as being on opposite ends of the spectrum when they actually go hand in hand," the educator says.

Camille Anthony told the Weekly World News: "When you're tired and haven't had enough sleep, you make a lot of mistakes. You can't be creative when you're tired. But taking a 10 to 30 minute nap can help you produce more, enhance your mood and enable you to get along better with the people you aren't necessarily losing when employees are snoozing. One company, Yankee Metals, of Bristol, Conn., is planning construction of a new headquarters with eight full-time napping rooms.

"I think within the next five-to-ten years napping in the workplace will be readily accepted," Mrs. Anthony told the News. "Napping will be looked at as almost the same thing as lunch or smoking breaks," she said. "But it still won't be accepted by everyone."

RUNNERS BEWARE: Drinking too much water can kill you!

Runners face an even deadlier foe than dehydration, according to an amazing new study in the Annals of Internal Medicine — drinking too much water can actually be lethal!

At least 14 marathon runners have recently collapsed and died due to hyponatremia, a shortage of salt in the blood triggered by too much water entering the system at once.

During a race, researchers say, the kidneys are unable to absorb water as fast as it can enter the body, causing the brain to swell and the lungs to fill with fluid.

Doctors often misdiagnose the condition as a heart attack, and prescribe treatments which make the problem worse.

To avoid the problem, researchers advise runners to drink

Q Does Paul McCartney actually like his new girlfriend really? Does he only use her for sex? That seems unbelievable. You'd think with all of his money the former Beatle would be dating a long-legged girl, at the very least.

— Gene D., Coppersville, Mich.

A The supposedly broke Beatle is willing to overpay the physical fancy of gal pal Heather Mills who, at best, is only a pretty face. Mills, who lost a leg in a traffic accident, is a model who is known for her ability to wear prosthetic limbs. Despite the negative publicity surrounding the breakup of Paul and Heather, the two are still very much in love. Heather even stood by Paul during his messy divorce from Linda McCartney. Sources close to the couple say Paul and Heather will be married soon after a long legal battle with Linda is settled. Heather has been the guiding force behind the drive to ban land mines. Since meeting Paul, Heather has lost her prosthetic leg and is now walking without it. Paul is also helping Heather maintain her career. Mills has already been in the tops up Paul's Beatles' days as a perfect 10. She's a former swimsuit model.

Q I laughed until I cried watching the latest Jim Carrey flick Mr. Deeds. It's about a cop with multiple personalities.

Then I heard some group is protesting it. What's their beef?

— Alan P., Clayton, Ga.

A The National Alliance for the Mentally Ill (NAMI) recently sent the movie's producers a letter charging that it shows "the mentally ill as people who are mentally ill." The group's main beef is that the movie trivializes the challenges of living with a mental illness.

INSENSITIVE TO THE MENTALLY ILL? Jim Carrey

Q I am a conditioned vegetarian and appreciate it when Hollywood stars who share my beliefs publicize the cause. So I was extremely upset when someone told me that one of my favorite actresses, Laura Dern, has abandoned vegetarianism.

Please say it ain't so.

— Josh B., Santa Cruz, Calif.

A Laura used to play vegetarians and managed to stick to a veggie diet for six years, but she's given up the staple and now eats red meat and chicken, she says.

But don't judge Laura too harshly. She has a good excuse — she was making soup of vegetables.

The actress avoided the daily activities of a typical vegetarian. "I started eating meat and I was good. I'm pretty all of [one] people.

Q There seems to have been a lot of movies about a boat around in the water. The Perfect Storm looked so realistic I almost got seasick just watching it.

Was it filming the picture with the stars George Clooney and Mark Wahlberg?

Jon L., Somerville, Texas

A Well, the people were very realistic in their performances as they were actually filming on a boat in the middle of the ocean. Mark Wahlberg — a former bodyguard for rapper Marky Mark — is a big fan of the movie. He's also a big fan of the movie. He's also a big fan of the movie.

Q I am the world's biggest Star Wars fan and my favorite character is Queen Amidala, who bravely fights against the invasion of her planet.

So I was very upset when someone told me that the actress who plays the Queen is a miserably stuff dodger in real life.

Is that true?

A Natalie Portman, who stars as the spunky sci-fi heroine, says it's a pack of lies. She says Natalie was born in Jerusalem and all Israeli citizens — male and female — are supposed to put in a stint in the armed forces for it.

When Natalie turned 18 last year, she didn't report for duty.

In an interview that recently appeared in Israel's largest daily paper the actress was quoted as saying that she ignored her draft notification because:

"I consider myself Israeli but am not present."

She also reportedly dissed Israelis as too "aggressive."

But Natalie's spokesman has since branded the interview an outrageous fabrication and says the quotes were made up.

She said Natalie has never been called to serve by the army and that under Israeli law, the star is exempt because she left the country before age 18.

Vitamin C stops urinary tract infections in women

Women can reduce their chances of getting urinary tract infections by taking vitamin C every day, declare experts.

"We recommend that they take two 1,500-milligram tablets daily," says Dr Richard Marchisa. "It is especially useful in women who have had a history of urinary tract infections." The urinary tract includes the bladder and the tubes that remove urine from the body. Dr Marchisa says that as many as 20 percent of women will suffer a urinary tract infection at some time in their lives.

He makes a distinction between urinary tract infections in men and women, because men frequently have a complicating factor, such as a prostate condition, while women don't.

"Vitamin C acidifies the urine and an acidic environment discourages the growth of microorganisms, which are the cause of most bladder infections," says Dr Neil Salpeter.

Adds Dr Marchisa: "While vitamin C is useful in discouraging the growth of most microorganisms, it is not effective against those responsible for AIDS and other viruses, and gonorrhea, chlamydia and tuberculosis."

In addition, Dr Marchisa cautions patients with kidney stones or kidney disease to consult with a physician before taking vitamin C supplements.

NAIROBI, Kenya — There's only one Tarzan and he's a fictional character. But there are plenty of real-life "apes men" who are swinging around the wilds of Africa in loincloths. Kenyan government officials say that in Nairobi National Park there are currently at least 23 men from Europe and America who have given up life in the fast lane to live in the jungle just like Tarzan.

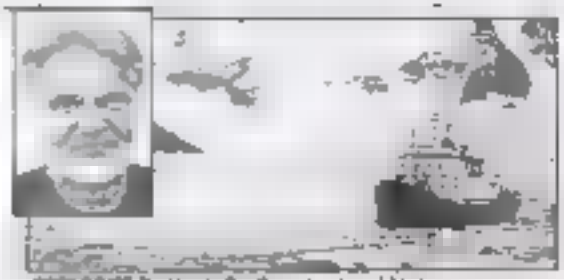
Lost Continent of Atlantis found 1,200 feet below Antarctica



GEOLOGIST Dr Martin Brodham, inset, and his team were studying ice shelves in Antarctica's Queen Maud Land when they made this astounding find.

Sonar imaging [illegible] city at more than 36 square miles on the ocean floor!

By MIKE POTTER
Weekly World News

CAPE NORVEGIO, Antarctica — Geologists using sonar have detected the remnants of a sprawling prehistoric city buried 1,200 feet [illegible] the Antarctic ice — and they believe it may be the ruins of Atlantis!

Stretching more than 36 square miles, the forgotten metropolis boasts outer walls 18-feet thick, towers six stories tall and domed buildings, suggesting it was the center of a thriving civilization.

"People have been searching for Atlantis for centuries at the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean — but now it seems they were looking for it in the wrong place," says geologist Dr Martin Brodham, spokesman for the Australian research team that made the astonishing discovery.

To the ancient Greeks, it was an undisputed fact that in a much earlier time known as the Golden Age, a great civilization called Atlantis dominated the world.

"The philosopher Aristotle often referred to it in his writings," notes Dr Brodham.

According to legend, people from the continent of Atlantis colonized much of the planet, but their civilization was eventually destroyed in a major catastrophe.

For centuries, explorers have braved ice rain for traces of Atlantis — believing that the "lost" civilization kept life in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean and literally sank. But most [illegible]

There, this July, geologists were studying ice shelves on Antarctica's Queen Maud Land region to observe the possible effects of global warming, when they made an astounding find.

"The below the ice, we detected four straight lines at 90 right angles, forming a perfect square," said Dr Brodham.

"We knew it had to be man-made. It turned out to be the outer walls of the city."

The discovery that became what geologists [illegible] a 3-million-square-mile seventh continent is not a complete surprise. It is well known that millions of years ago, Antarctica was a warm, fertile land teeming with animal life — there have been fossils found of prehistoric deer.

The scientists now theorize that about 14,000 generations people similar to the Polynesians and Hawaiians set sail from Southeast Asia and founded Atlantis in Antarctica as we now call it.

"For a time they dominated the world, using their seamanship, which was thousands of years ahead of the rest of mankind, to trade and set up outposts around the world," says Dr Brodham.

But when the last Ice Age struck roughly 12,000 years ago, the big freeze hit Antarctica the hardest. The ice, which had been creeping slowly for eons, swept over the continent completely and temperatures dropped so low that human habitation became impossible.

"This must have spelled doom for the once-mighty people of Atlantis," said Dr Brodham.

10 MOST COMMON LIES KIDS TELL THEIR PARENTS

Your children won't pull the wool over your eyes if you recognize and deal with these little lies boys and girls tell their parents, say two psychiatrists.

Here are the 10 most common lies kids expect Mom and Dad to swallow, according to Dr. Joanna Poland and Dr. Jane Quintanilla.

1. "I lost my allowance."
2. "No, Mom, I sure haven't been watching channel (the forbidden TV channel)."
3. "I haven't used the telephone."
4. "I didn't eat all the candy (or cookies, etc.)."
5. "We weren't fighting — only playing a game."
6. "I haven't got any homework" or "I did it on the bus."
7. "I've made my bed and cleaned up my room."
8. "I didn't smoke a cigarette" or "I didn't drink any of the wine."
9. "Yes, I've brushed my teeth" or "I already washed my hands."
10. "I didn't do it, Johnny did!"

Parents should teach their children at an early age that lying is wrong, the psychiatrists say.

Explain to the child that it's important for each of you to trust the other, and that lying will break down that trust, advised Dr. Poland.

And if the child does lie to you, "don't get angry, but make it clear you are disappointed — you don't let down (because he lied to you," she said.

"Tell the child gently but in a serious tone that he has to tell the truth to uphold your trust in him. What you'll be doing is establishing a relationship of mutual trust and the child an understandable link between right and wrong, lying and truth."

Tired of your kids throwing a tantrum?

GIVE THEM BRAT PILLS

By KEVIN CREED

WASHINGTON — Child-protection groups are up-in-arms over a new pill that could soon be legal in America — a sedative that keeps young children in a constantly groggy, half-asleep state!

Just one capsule makes kids little more than zombies for up to three days at a time.

The new "medicine," known as Grumnarchen, has been used in Germany and Sweden for the past eight years. It's advertised as "the medication that keeps your child calm during those difficult growing years."

But many doctors say the promotional phrase is nothing more than a shameless euphemism for keeps [illegible] and politely [illegible] not and still [illegible] parents [illegible]

Police blame powerful new perfume for 6 rapes

PARIS — An incredibly powerful perfume is being blamed for at least six rapes after suspects claimed they were driven into an uncontrollable state of arousal by the victims' fragrance.

None of the alleged perpetrators has any criminal history and all have expressed remorse and bafflement over their actions.

The perfume, called simply "Le Bleu," reportedly replaced a strong pheromone — a chemical substance produced by animals and used to attract mates. The pheromone in Le Bleu was reportedly taken from the glands of reindeer.

The scent was manufactured by Les Roses Mysterieuse company. It had not been placed on the market at the time of the attacks but samples had been mailed out to selected preferred customers — Parisian women who frequently used other Roses Mysterieuse products.

Days after the mailing, there were six reported rapes and 13 attempted rapes — four of them in public, in full view of large crowds.

Police began to suspect there might be a link after all 19 suspects were found to have no memory of any attack and seemed as baffled as their victims about what had come over them.

"I had to have her," one suspect told the judge at his arraignment.

"I was in the grip of a desire stronger than anything I've ever felt."

An enterprising detective in Paris' Crimes Against Women Department examined the cases, interviewed the victims and discovered the link. All the women had been wearing Le Bleu.

Officials at Roses Mysterieuse refused comment but issued a written statement saying they will not market the fragrance.

The company would not confirm or deny that the perfume contained a reindeer pheromone, but insiders said, off the record, that it was a key ingredient.

"HERE'S THE STORY OF MY LAST DIET"

"I have always been unhappy with my figure. I've been 40 or sterling when I was just 16 years old, and I'm 33 and a mother of two. For 15 years, my weight has fluctuated between 130 and 180 pounds. I'd always manage to lose weight for a special occasion, but afterwards, the pounds would pile on faster than I could lose them. Then, in June of 1990, a friend saw me on a TV show that I was appearing on called Quick Slim and I was helping people lose weight. I decided to go on a diet, I just found that I was eating less because I felt full after a few bites. During the next 34 days, I lost an additional 32 pounds. Since that day in July '90, I've kept all 44 pounds. The Quick Slim Fat Blocker tablets worked for me, I'm sure anyone can have the same success."

CIRCUS STRONGMAN KILLED BY GIANT BEAR

YARISLAV, Russia — Strongman Zander the Great attempted to pull off one of the most daunting feats in circus history when he wrestled an untamed 1,800-pound Kodiak bear in front of a crowd of cheering fans. Unfortunately, the 1,800-pound bear took just 30 seconds to crush Zander's head in its mouth, killing him in front of a crowd of cheering fans.

My lovely bride-to-be blows her nose on our tablecloth!

BOBBY in Maryland

Dear Dotti: You're not going to believe this, but my fiancee blows her nose on our tablecloth when we're eating dinner. I'm not kidding, Dotti — and this isn't something that happens once in a blue moon, either. Cynthia does it almost every night! I've given her fancy handkerchiefs and boxes of tissues, but does she use them? No! She just continues to hoist the tablecloth up and honk away while we're eating dinner. This is revolting to say the least. What should I do? — Bobby in Maryland

Dear Bobby: Why do you care where the gal blows her nose as long as she doesn't use YOUR shirt sleeve? Get off the lady's case, Bub. Her little habit might not appeal to you, but she could certainly do worse!

My brother bounces my bed until I puke!

Dear Dotti: My little brother is a pain in the butt. The main problem is the fact that we share bunk beds and I sleep on top. Every morning he kicks the bottom of my mattress and bounces me around until I get sick to my stomach. A lot of times I actually throw up. I tell my mother but she doesn't believe me. Please help me, Dotti. — Desperate in New York

Dear Desperate: The solution to your problem is as plain as the nose on my face. Since you sleep on the top bunk, start wetting the bed!

My guests think they're too good for my cats!

MILLIE in Kansas

Dear Dotti: The snooty people who come over to my house act funny and don't stay long because my cats shed on the furniture and the hairs get on their clothes. I understand that everybody isn't going to love my cats as much as I do. But it seems to me that people who visit my home should be more interested in my company and conversation than their clothes.

Dotties: If that's the case, maybe you should always wear rubber underwear to the doctor's office!

Dear Old Fashioned in Pennsylvania: I see absolutely nothing wrong with an 11 year-old girl wearing an 11 year-old girl wearing mascara and lipstick — as long as she's dressed in the store!

Dear Foolish in Florida: If I've told you goldbrick once, I've told you a dozen times. There's a right way and a wrong way to get a man's attention — and taking your dress off in a bowling alley is not — repeat, is not — one of them!

Please help me. — Melinda in Florida

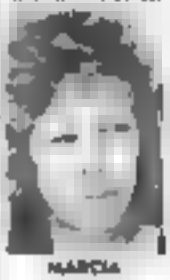
Dear Melinda: Just what does this mean? Are you going to do — or have you already done — that? Tell him that you're an American and proud of it! Then tell him I said he's a jerk!

I've got two wives and I'm sure paying the price!

Dear Dotti: I have two wives. My first wife does everything I tell her to do and never gives me a lick of trouble. My second wife, on the other hand, is a very little witch. She complains about quit shining my boots and cleaning the horse manure out of the barn. Sometimes she even refuses to give me the lovin'. I'm entitled to it! I slap her around but that doesn't seem to help. I need her obedience, Dotti, and I clearly don't have it. Please tell me how to handle this wayward woman. — Fed Up in North Carolina

Dear Fed Up: Any man who married two women, buddy, deserves what he gets!

My cheap husband feeds me happy hour handouts!



MARCIA in Oregon

Dear Dotti: My husband is a total cheapskate. He won't take me out to dinner unless I agree to go to the bar with him for happy hour — where we chow like chicken wings and those godawful artificial crab cakes are handed out to the people for free. It's one thing to munch on snacks if you're out on the town. But my husband expects me to load up a plate and then damn I deserve better, Dotti! If you were me, what would you do? — Marcia in Oregon

Dear Marcia: If a man asked me to eat off a communal snack platter I'd spit in his face. Short of doing that you might very well take some of that "good money" you earn — and treat yourself!

Here's how YOU can write DEAR DOTTI

Dear Ms. Angeles-based Dotti a letter, and a stamped, if possible — and be sure to sign it like a lo. Write to Dear Dotti, c/o Weekly World News, 600 Mamaroneck Ave., Harrison, NY 10528. We'll answer your letters in the MOST fun (though sometimes not the most helpful) way we can!

Dear Dotti: My brother and I have been together for three years but I'm miserable and don't know what to do. He's from Vermont and I'm from Massachusetts, and that seems to be the root of our problems. You see, Maxwell wants me to "act like a Mexican," and I don't know how. It's not that I haven't tried. It's just not in my blood. What can I do — Miserable in Mexico

MELISSA in Mexico

Dear Miss: Don't be stupid. If people really liked you, they would stay in spite of the fact they're starving other people and the cats for your lack of company. There's obviously some thing wrong with you!

My Mexican sweetie wants a REAL hot tamale!

LOST SE
JESUS

BIBLE SCHOLAR Dr. Roger Stone, left, says the recovered parchment is Jesus' legendary Sermon on the Mountain.

CALCUTTA, India — An ancient parchment kept under lock and key for centuries in an Indian temple has been identified by a top Bible expert as a fragment of the Lost Sermon of Jesus!

By VINCENZO SARDI

The frayed goat-skin parchment was found among a collection of sacred documents stretching from the final version of the Bible to the early Christian leaders in the 4th century A.D.

"This document carries new light on some of the most important teachings of Christ," says Christian Bible scholar Dr. Roger Stone, who discovered the parchment and has been researching the manuscript.

It is believed to be part of the missing volumes of Jesus' Sermon on the Mountain, delivered to his disciples on a hillside in Galilee, and which has been lost to the world for centuries.

Dr. Stone says the parchment is part of the original Sermon Jesus delivered on the Mount of Galilee. It reveals [illegible] persecuted Christian heretics known as Gnostics and taken with them to India around 325 A.D., he said.

"Tragically, hundreds of the other sacred writings were destroyed," said Dr. Stone.

For centuries, the parchments were locked away in an obscure Christian temple near Calcutta. Last year, Dr. Stone obtained permission from the Indian government to

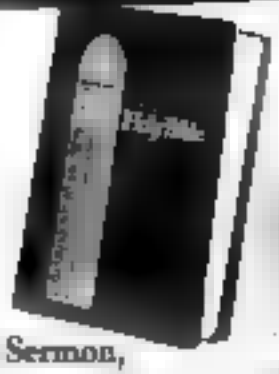
RMON OF FOUND



Here are 10 excerpts from the Lost Sermon, along with interpretations by the Bible scholar:

I "Do not weep, even though thou weepest now, even though thou art lonely, even though thou art hungry. Even as ye eat this bread and this dish, remembrest My love manifest in the hour of thee, and if ye believeth in me, ye will be lifted up into the Kingdom of Heaven."

Jesus is saying that "if you believe in him, you can overcome all adversity," the scholar explains.

II "As ye forgive your neighbor for his trespasses, so must ye forgive thine own self."

This is a powerful and startling teaching, the Bible scholar points out, because as the Gospels as we know them, Christ speaks only of forgiveness coming from God the Father or from Himself.

"In fact, what got Jesus into trouble with the Pharisees for 'blasphemy' was His claim to be able to forgive sin — something which the ancient Hebrews felt only God could do, not mere mortals," explains Dr. Stone.

"Here, Jesus makes it clear that he doesn't want people to live their lives burdened by guilt."

III "I know that in the heart, you will ask 'Is he a false prophet.' For that you are forgiven, for even I, on my last day with you, will question my Father."

Christ is saying that doubt is normal — that we shouldn't feel bad about sometimes doubting His holy word or even His divinity.

"Only by overcoming doubt can we attain true faith," said Dr. Stone. "Jesus is also forecasting His own moments of doubt on the cross, when He will ask God, 'Why have thou forsaken me?'"

IV "Verily, I say unto you, if the neighbor slaughters thine oxen, do not slaughter the neighbor's oxen. And if the neighbor smites the brother and kills him, smite not the neighbor and kill him. For my Father has said thus, 'Vengeance is mine.'"

The scholar interprets this to mean that Jesus vehemently opposed the death penalty.

"In Christ's view, only God has the right to render ultimate judgements," Dr. Stone says.

V "I have told thee: Love thy neighbor as thyself. And so, if ye steal not suffer bondage, suffer not thy neighbor to remain in bondage."

Jesus was enormously ahead of his time in opposing slavery, which was commonplace in the ancient world and practiced among the Hebrews.

"The instructions of Jesus could not be clearer," Dr. Stone points out. "It is said that this teaching did not come to light earlier — if so, hopeless souls as American slavery would have been avoided."

VI "To me the bread and fish I give unto you is good, but to me the flesh of any man is an abomination. Better that you eat a whole loaf of swine flesh even one man. For I say unto you, the flesh of your brothers is my flesh."

Nowhere in the Bible as we know it today is cannibalism explicitly forbidden. Here Jesus confirms unequivocally that the eating of human flesh violates God's law.

"Jesus also appears to be using cannibalism as a kind of metaphor for greed and the habit of using other people like pieces of meat," says Dr. Stone. "He is talking about exploitation of any kind."

VII "I was born of a woman, unto the flesh, and you, I tell you that when you dishonor the wife or dishonor any woman, you dishonor my mother Mary."

Again Jesus was far ahead of His time, going on record against wife abuse and rape at a time when women were second-class citizens all around the world.

"He definitely was all for equality for women," Dr. Holstein says.

VIII "My father has many mansions and to all of them will I journey for His sake."

Theologians considered by Dr. Stone disagree as to exactly what this might mean. Some believe that Jesus could be referring to other planets, or even so-called past life existences. Others believe He is simply talking about other geographical regions He planned to visit beyond the Holy Land.

IX "To love greatly is not enough, ye must love my Father above all else. For Lucifer was full of love for himself, and Adam full of love for Eve and yet they fell."

This powerful teaching reminds us that an individual is safe as good as what he loves most.

X "I will come again to comfort thee, and again and yet again."

This intriguing line suggests that rather than a single "Second Coming" as is popularly referred to by preachers, Jesus actually promised to return as often as necessary.

"There is nothing we He will never give up on mankind," said Dr. Stone. "He will always be our Savior."

New vaccine could cure Alzheimer's disease, say doctors

THE GREAT COMMUNICATOR Ronald Reagan suffers from the crippling disease

By LINDA DECKER

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A cure may be close for victims of debilitating Alzheimer's disease, thanks to a new miracle vaccine developed by scientists who say it has survived early tests which show signs that it is safe for use in humans.

When results of the experiments on the new compound were released at the World Alzheimer's Congress here by researchers with Elan Pharmaceuticals, enthusiastic scientists hailed the breakthrough as signaling that a major victory in the war against the dreadful ailment may be just around the corner.

"The exciting thing about this vaccine is that it appears to be a first step toward an actual cure, since it seems to slow and even reverse the progression of the disease, which no other drug on the market does," Dr. Zaven Khachaturian, senior medical and scientific advisor to the Alzheimer's Association told the press.

Retiree Emory Kapcik, of El Paso, Texas, welcomed the development and said he hopes the treatment will become available in time to help his wife, Zelda, 72. "We were married more than 44 years when I noticed about three or four years ago that she was having trouble remembering things," he said. "Now she has trouble dressing without help and I don't dare leave her alone for more than a few minutes. She can't even remember the names of our grandchildren.

"If there's a new medicine or a new treatment that can give her back her life, then I pray that it becomes available in time. She's the love of my life, and I can't bear seeing her like this."

An estimated 11 million people around the globe currently suffer from Alzheimer's, and world health experts warn that the number is expected to expand to more than 14 million as life expectancy increases.

During tests on mice, the vaccine has been shown to repair and prevent brain-clogging plaques that cause Alzheimer's. The treatment is not expected to be available for a few years.

Why do my new shoes walk by themselves?

CHARLIE in Kentucky

Serena Sabak

Dear Serena: I know this sounds crazy, but every word is true. I recently bought a pair of wing tips at a thrift shop for $2.50. They looked brand-new and really seemed to be a bargain until I got home and found out that they walk by themselves.

Every night I put them in my closet and shut the door. But when I wake up they're apt to be in my living room, kitchen, garage — anywhere. I live alone. Behind, as I know it's not somebody playing tricks on me. What gives? — Charlie in Kentucky

Dear Charlie: The shoes you bought belonged to a man who was killed in a grisly car crash earlier this year but the fact that they walk has nothing to do with him. This might surprise you, but the shoes get their power to move from a negative energy that flows from YOUR mind. I strongly urge you to stop in meditation on your situation. If you don't get rid of this energy soon, it could do you great harm.

JANET in Nebraska

Dear Serena: I told you in my previous letters my husband to be shattered my life when he left me at the altar last year. Since then my life has taken lots of twists and turns and, believe it or not, that same girl is back in my life. The whole situation has me pretty confused but the fact is, I think I'm still in love with him. I want to make the relationship work this time but I don't want to get my heart broken again. Serena, please look into your crystal ball and tell me, what should I do? — Janet in Nebraska*

Dear Janet: This is a highly unusual situation but the truth is that the man really is in love with you and will be faithful if you give him another chance. He truly realizes he was wrong to leave you the first time. If you marry him you two will have a long and wonderful life together.

Dear Serena: Where in the world did I lose my diamond bracelet? When my husband and I came home from my sister's wedding in June I did it empty in what I thought was a safe place — and now we can't find the darn thing anywhere. Please tell me where it is before I go absolutely crazy looking for it. — Frustrated in Ohio

Dear Frustrated: It's in the little black purse that you put in the drawer next to your bed.

FRANCES in Maryland

Dear Serena: Somebody at work has been stealing practically out of my desk drawer for the past few months and it's really starting to upset me. Please identify the culprit so I can confront him or her and put an end to these childish shenanigans once and for all. — Francis in Maryland

Dear Francis: Beware of the one who keeps stealing your pencils and then through you haven't discovered it yet. Backyard shed is worth your change.

Dear Serena: In my father's reality we "biological father." Many lawyers he is but I have my doubts. For one thing I am the only one in the family with dark hair. And I'm a full foot shorter than my sister. Please clear up this family mystery — I'll always have the man I call Dad, but my sister and I have a lot rode her riding on it. — Darrel in Oklahoma

Dear Darryl: Your mother is telling you about the pictures is true. But she's mistaken. Your real father is a man your mother had a one-time fling with back in 1974. She has always believed your father but that's not the way it is.

DARRYL in Oklahoma

Dear Serena: Before my mother died last month she gave me a small gold pendant with a red stone in the center. It also has a strange inscription on the back, the letters "LAS." I didn't get a chance to ask Mom what it meant before she lapsed into a coma. Can you offer me any insight? — Baffled in Canada

Editor's Note: Serena Sabak retired to Montreal to meet personally with Baffled before she had a chance to answer this letter. Serena has assured us that she has the situation well under control and also promised to return to the office in time to write her column for next week.

WHAT is your latest message from the Orient this week? It's easy and fun to decipher. Here's the key to decoding your message:

If the number of letters in your first name is 3 or less, subtract that number from 7. If there are more than 3 letters in your first name, subtract the total from 13.

Now take the result and find your key letter in the word ORDER above. Starting at the upper left corner of the box below, check each one of your key letters as it appears from left to right. The letters below each of your key letters spell out a coded message for you.

WILL YOUR MARRIAGE LAST?

Quick quiz tells if your relationship is rock solid or on the rocks!

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Is your marriage as good as gold — or as good as gone?

Researchers at the University of Stockholm say married couples and especially newlyweds, can determine with uncanny accuracy whether their relationship is solid as a rock or on the rocks — by taking a simple seven-question quiz.

The experts' conclusions are based on a massive, 10-year study of hundreds of couples throughout Europe and the United States.

"The research is important because what we have learned can help couples identify possible problems in their relationship and take steps to correct them before it's too late," said lead researcher Dr. Inge Bergdahl.

By TEDDY GERALD
Weekly World News

There has been so much study done on the various stages of breakdown in a marriage, but very little on the keys to determining in advance whether any particular marriage will work. We think now we have found those keys."

To determine the likelihood that your relationship will succeed, take this simple quiz devised by Dr. Bergdahl and her colleagues:

1 When discussing plans for the future, do you say "I" or "we"?

2 When a serious problem arises do you a) discuss it openly and accept the blame if it's your fault or b) try to ignore it and pretend it doesn't exist?

3 In conversations with others, do you a) refer positively to your mate, making it clear that you are proud of them or b) find that you're often critical of your mate and his or her opinions?

4 When looking back to your first date and the circumstances of the meeting, do you a) recall everything in vivid detail or b) have trouble narrowing in on many of the specifics?

5 When you argue do you a) stick to the point and state your complaints in specific terms such as "You said you'd cut the grass and you didn't" or b) make sweeping criticisms like "You never..." or "You're always..."?

6 During hard times do you a) react with hopefulness and optimism or b) become negative and pessimistic?

7 In an argument, do you a) really listen to your partner and take your partner's complaints seriously or b) make sarcastic remarks or roll your eyes?

Scoring

If you answered six or more questions, your marriage is built on solid ground.

If you answered four to five questions, your relationship is reasonable sound but you should be aware that problems could arise if you're not careful to be considerate of each other's feelings at all times.

If you answered no more than three questions, it might be time to consider some form of professional counseling to make sure your marriage doesn't crumble.

OLD WEST OUTLAW JESSE JAMES WAS A SISSY-BOY CROSS-DRESSER

. . . say historians!

By DRAKE ANDERS / Weekly World News

Jesse James was a cross-dressing sissy-boy, who slipped on a pretty gingham frock and sweet-talked his way into a cathouse so he could slaughter Union soldiers who were partying inside.

America's most infamous train-robber and bandit leader was a fresh-faced teenager in 1864, riding with a gang of Confederate guerrillas when he learned that Yankees were hanging out at a popular brothel near Independence, Mo. and decided to take terrible action.

According to Civil War historian Dr. Amanda Dunning, Jesse "I" grimaced up in the homespun dress, stuck a pink ribbon in his bonnet, and mounted his horse side-saddle before riding off to chat with the madam.

"The other boys who rode with him said he made a fine looking girl until you got up close and saw those cold killer eyes of his," Dr. Dunning revealed.

Almost a dozen of Quantrill's ruthless guerrillas crowded up and followed a few yards behind Jesse and he stopped outside the parlor house and called out to the madam. Speaking in his softest voice, Jesse explained that "she" and "her" girlfriends wanted to come outside and play with the soldiers.

The madam, reportedly running the doors wide-open, thinking his short waist-high as he could reach but not shoulders. Jesse swept from the saddle and led the way inside.

MOTHER Zerelda James, right, stands by the grave of her son Jesse days shortly after his death in 1882.

Dr. Dunning said "Jesse had them rounded up and standing as the parlor with their heads down and their pants around their ankles before they knew what was going on."

As mean as they were, most members of the gang of psychopaths were in a mood to turn the humiliated soldiers off into the night and let them go after soldiers' genitals were cut.

Jesse paid for his evil ways when he was shot and killed in his St. Joseph, Mo. home on

I promise you that it will change your metabolism and make you thinner and firmer naturally! Your body shape, size, and weight will change and your new energy level will come from the burning up of your stored fat! This is true for every body type and size.

Stimulates Your Good Fat To Attack Your Bad Fat

We now know for sure that thermogenesis can be deeply stimulated by certain herbs. (Thermogenesis is the combustion of brown fat into good fat) burning off white fat (the bad fat) Brown fat is filled with stored vitamins and fat burning cells and when stimulated burns stored white fat for heat and energy - so much so that as little as weight as 24 hours. Stored white fat can only be used up by brown fat. The more brown fat that is stimulated, the more capacity and ability it has to burn off stored white fat instead of protein.

How Brown Good Fat Attacks Stored White Bad Fat Especially on Hips, Thighs, Stomach and Buttocks

A short reaction from the fat burning herbs causes the norepinephrine to enter the brown (good) fat at a much higher activity level. This activates the burning off of these stored white fat calories by way of white fat cells. The metabolic rate is increased causing the white fat to burn quicker. Stored brown fat is activated to burn stored fat for heat it is now forced to burn stored white fat - the very type of fat you want to get rid of on your body especially on your hips, thighs, stomach, and buttocks.

A whopping 63% of women would take wealth over a handsome hunk anytime

. . . says new survey!

"Would you rather be happily married to a handsome hunk — or have riches?"

That's the question Weekly World News asked in a revealing nationwide survey of 100 women.

Surprisingly a whopping 63 percent said they'd take the money, while only 37 percent hankered for a hunk!

By JUNE LAWYER
Weekly World News

Los Angeles was the city where the largest number of women preferred money, with 80 percent choosing green backs over tanned and muscled male backs.

A majority of women in four out of five cities wanted riches. And even in New York, where most rated beat, only 55 percent of women would take the man instead of the money.

"Men are fickle. Diamonds are forever!" said Sheila Tate of LaGrange, Ill., who chose the bucks.

Agreed Sandy Moscoso of Los Angeles: "I don't think males make good husbands — too many makes a good life."

Laura Turner of Franklin, Tenn., would gladly pass up the money for a good marriage to a handsome hunk: "Then you have real riches," she said.

Added Lilly Barrows of Los Angeles: "He wouldn't even have to be a hunk — just a good person — because money doesn't make happiness."

Wanna look calm, cool and collected — even if you're about to pee in your pants?

MILLIONAIRE Donald Trump always looks cool as a cucumber.

You can project a cool, steady image by using the same techniques successful people in all fields use, says a psychiatrist.

Here are Dr. Leo Wollman's tips to help you come across as a "heavy hitter":

Avoid image-destroying outbursts by commanding yourself to "Stop!" whenever you become angry or unraveled because of a stressful situation.

"It may sound simplistic but it works and will help you keep your cool," declared Dr. Wollman.

Make your words count. "When challenged or contradicted, keep your responses as brief as possible. Chatterboxes are viewed as 'nervous Nellies.'

"'Heavy hitters' are not upset by silence. They don't become antsy or talkative when there's a lull in the conversation."

Say "I think" rather than "I feel."

Say "I know" or "I presume" rather than "I believe" or "I suppose." Said Dr. Wollman: "Those who lead with their heads rather than their hearts come across as cooler, more stable individuals."

Avoid exaggeration. For example, describe a delicious dessert simply as "mouth-watering", don't gush that "it's so utterly fantastic it's sinful." Exaggerators are seen as flighty and frivolous.

Don't work at convincing people. If you are overly intent on persuading people to see things your way, you'll be viewed as tense and pushy.

Don't fidget. Avoid fiddling with your hair or toying with your pen. Others will think you're anxious or nervous.

Don't try to prolong a stalled conversation. People who do are seen as insecure or out of control.

Pregnant woman hanged — then gives birth at the end of the rope!

By KEVIN CREED | Weekly World News

ISTANBUL, Turkey — In the first-ever case of its kind, a condemned murderess gave birth to a healthy 4-pound, 6-ounce boy — just as she was hanged on the gallows!

Stunned witnesses say pregnant Sabah Musalpasa, 28, who had been convicted of poisoning her husband and two children, was in her eighth month of pregnancy when she was led to the gallows.

After a last-minute appeal was denied by the court, the executioner placed the noose around her neck and released the trapdoor.

But Mrs. Musalpasa's neck wasn't broken immediately and she was left kicking and choking at the end of the rope.

Then, to the amazement of the 100 dozen people watching, the baby began to pump out.

An alert medical official at Caddesi Prison, on hand to confirm the woman's death, stepped forward, pulled the newborn from the woman's baggy prison pants and began mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Experts say it may have been the very muscle contractions caused by the agony of the mother's death that ultimately forced the baby out.

"It was grotesque," said one official. "But it was life coming, quite literally, in the midst of death."

A Turkish government spokesman says the healthy infant will be placed anonymously with a family which will adopt him.

Mrs. Musalpasa is the second woman in history to give birth on the day of her execution. In 1781, a French woman convicted of heresy gave birth to a baby boy just three hours before her beheading.

EATING FISH CAN CURE DEPRESSION!

HELSINKI, Finland — Eating fish can cheer the blues away and keep you happy as a lark, a Finnish research study reports.

A large group of students at the University of Helsinki were divided into two groups. One group was told to eat fish at least three times a week, while the second group was told to avoid fish.

At the end of the study, those who ate fish were found to be significantly less depressed than those who avoided fish.

The researchers believe that it's the omega-3 fatty acids found in fish that help to keep people happy.

Drunk mom forces 7-year-old son to drive the car!

MADRID, Spain — A 7-year-old boy was stopped and questioned when police spotted him behind the wheel of a car. But the youngster had an excuse: "Mom told me to!"

Sure enough, the boy's mother, stashed in the gills and barely conscious, was slumbered in the backseat.

Thirty-one-year-old divorcee Anna Duran explained that it was perfectly all right because, "I'm telling him what lane to stay in and which way to turn."

Mrs. Duran was outraged when she was arrested and the boy taken into protective custody.

"I don't see what the problem is," she told reporters. "My son is bright and has good coordination."

"First they tell you you're not supposed to drive drunk. Then, when you don't drive drunk, they arrest you."

JUST FOR LAUGHS

Several weeks after a young man had been hired, he was called into the personnel manager's office.

"What is the meaning of this?" the manager asked. "When you applied for the job, you told us you had five years' experience. Now we discover this is the first job you've ever had."

"Well," the young man said, "the

PSYCHIC ASTROLOGER TO THE RICH AND FAMOUS

For the week of August 21

ARIES
Mar. 21 — Apr. 19

Early in the week, an old friend's strange behavior could leave you puzzled and test your patience. Be tolerant. Your relationship is worth it.

On Tuesday and Wednesday you may have to keep a tight rein on spending. Leave your credit cards at home when you go to the mall.

Don't get sterilized on the weekend. Relax and take it easy.

TAURUS
Apr. 20 — May 20

Your attractive personality becomes even more magnetic this week. People will be clamoring for your attention, especially on Thursday and Friday. Use good judgment in deciding who to socialize with and recognize you can't accept all invitations.

On Wednesday, you'll see real progress in the achievement of a special goal.

GEMINI
May 21 — June 20

On Monday your inspiration for fun news and imagination may land you in the middle of a squabble between two close friends. Be honest with both of them and things will work out.

On Wednesday and Thursday you may find yourself needlessly worried over something you can do nothing about — a good time to take a long walk or go to a movie.

CANCER
June 21 — July 22

Your natural cheerfulness and warm personality may pay big dividends on Tuesday when you acquire the trust of a new acquaintance. The person could offer you a business arrangement that will benefit you both.

On Wednesday or Thursday, single Cancers could meet that special someone in an unlikely place.

LEO
July 23 — Aug. 22

This week could get hectic unless you make a conscious effort to slow down and relax. It's not a good week to make major decisions or to begin new projects.

Single Leos: You could find yourself pursued by a friend you never dreamed had any romantic interest in you.

Leo is a celebrity. Be patient with your mate this week. Don't say anything you'll regret later.

VIRGO
Aug. 23 — Sept. 22

This will be a week of surprises — most of them good. You could be having unexpected visitors from out of town or you may get a letter from someone you haven't seen in ages. This is a perfect week to "go with the flow" and let life bring you unexpected joys.

On the down side, a minor dental or skin condition could cause you some problems — not serious but annoying.

LIBRA
Sept. 23 — Oct. 22

You could find yourself facing an important decision on Tuesday.

On Wednesday or Thursday, a friend comes to you with a problem. You'll be tempted to give advice but restrain yourself. Be a good sympathetic listener but don't get involved.

Toward the end of the week, you'll find the time to tackle that project you've been putting off.

SCORPIO
Oct. 23 — Nov. 21

Starting Monday, your luck will improve dramatically. Don't be afraid to take risks.

Toward the end of the week, you can keep the lucky streak going by resisting the temptation to lean too heavily on others.

A big financial windfall could come from an unexpected place. Keep your eyes open and expect a wonderful week.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22 — Dec. 21

Changes are in the wind this week — some good, some difficult. Expect the unexpected.

Relationships with the opposite sex are apt to be volatile and you're well advised to avoid confrontation when you can.

In financial matters, be careful not to let wishful thinking influence your decisions.

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22 — Jan. 19

This week you may find yourself surrounded by cynical, pessimistic people. It may take a lot of energy not to let them darken your mood. But resist the temptation to look on the bleak side.

Singles could meet a fascinating member of the opposite sex at a social gathering. It could blossom into something meaningful, but go slow.

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20 — Feb. 18

On Tuesday and Wednesday, your imagination could lead to run away with you. Slow down and temper your wild ideas with some common sense. You can accomplish whatever you want if you'll just be realistic.

Your child or the child of a friend may give you some surprisingly good advice. The perfect simplicity of it could be just what you need.

PISCES
Feb. 19 — Mar. 20

This is a great week to renew ties with friends who have been slowly drifting out of your life. The things you've been focusing on these last few weeks will wait. Friends are more important. Think about having a small get together on Friday or Saturday.

A financial venture that you had given up as hopeless takes a wonderful turn for the better late in the week.
